CAPT. WAARD SAILS PACIFIC IN JUNK, TRIP TAKES 91 DAYS

STORMY VOYAGE

Twenty-Three Ton Craft Tossed By Typhoons Off Japan

BY LARRY LEHRBAS

After 91 days of romantic adventure on the high seas fighting typhoons and storms the Chinese junk Amoy has safely reached Victoria, British Columbia, according to a message received yesterday from Capt. George Waard, skipper of the little junk. The Amoy 50 feet overall, and with a crew consisting of Captain Waard and his wife, former River Policeman John Kavalchuk, and three Chinese seamen, sailed from the Wetmore Road jetty at dawn on June 22.

It is believed that the Amoy —23 tons—is the smallest ship ever to attempt the adventurous voyage across the Pacific from China to Canada, and the message from Captain Waard sets a new record in trans-Pacific sailing.

"It's not going to be any pleasure trip," Captain Waard said just before hoisting sails for the romantic cruise. "We're liable to have some rough riding, but I built this little ship myself and I know how staunchly she's made. We'll make Victoria in two months time".

NO PLEASURE CRUISE

The voyage wasn't exactly a pleasure cruise, according to letters received from Captain Waard from the Omi islands and from Hakodate en route.

The staunch little junk was caught in one typhoon before it reached Hakodate and just before reaching Omi it laid with flapping sails in the doldrums for four days. Captain Waard also reported the capture of a sea-serpent from Hakodate, which he mounted and took along to America for exhibition purposes.

What adventures befell the tiny craft from the coast of Japan to the coast of America is not known yet, but they are certain to have been exciting when an old salt like Captain Waard—who spent practically his entire life cruising the seven seas—wires that they were 'thrilling'.

Captain Waard planned to steer a course along the coast of Korea, through the straits of Hakodate, possibly touching at the Aleutian Islands and Alaska, and then work down the coast to Victoria. Just what route Captain Waard actually followed from Hakodate is not known as the last letter from him was postmarked Hakodate.

Captain Waard's knowledge of the sea dates back to the time when as a boy of eleven he first put out on a sealing vessel from Victoria. He is of Dutch parentage, but was brought to Canada in infancy by his parents. After a spell on the west coast sealing vessels, during which he got his daily ration of beatings, first, he says, because he had done something wrong, and then because the mate believed that even though he had not done anything wrong he probably would before nightfall. Captain Waard went to the East Coast and worked out of Newfoundland for a time. Always, he has endeavored to stay with sailing vessels, although he has had some experience with steamships.

"On a sailing ship," the Captain says, "you meet with real sailors, men who are entirely different in character from those you meet up with on a steamship. Steamships, bah! I hate 'em. The dirt, and the smoke, and the smell. Once we put out to sea, we're clean until we get into port again and there's no fussing around scraping and polishing, but on a steamer you can't keep clean."

TEN YEARS IN CHINA

Captain Waard's experience in China extends over a period of some ten years. For several years he was master of a Jardine, Matheson boat out of Hongkong. More recently, he has been engaged in supervising the construction of the new Chinese Government Railways pier at Amoy for the American Trading Company.

Some months ago, when this work ended, Captain Waard con-

PEKING AROUSED BY PROPAGANDA OF SOVIET AGENTS

Bolshevik Literature At Capital Since Joffe Arrived

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Sept. 29.—Official telegrams report that M. Joffe is seriously ill with typhoid. Dr. Krieg left for Changchun from Peking today.

M. Terzian, who is on his way to the East from Moscow, is due to arrive at Changchun shortly. It is understood that it was Moscow's intention that Mr. Terzian and M. Joffe should carry on negotiations with Japan and with China simultaneously and as the Changchun Conference is off, it is expected that Russia will instruct M. Terzian to negotiate with China as a conference has been agreed on in principle though no date has been fixed.

Meanwhile there is a good deal of public dissatisfaction regarding the proposed Russo-Chinese conference, particularly in view of the great increase of Bolshevik propaganda and circulation of Bolshevik literature since M. Joffe and delegation reached China. There is reason to believe that the abortibe postal strike was due to Bolshevik converts and "Red" litertture is known to have reached the soldiery and police at Peking.

Seventy bodies have been recovered up to the present.

DR. SUN SAYS HE WROTE TO RUSS AND GERMANS AS REBUKE TO POWERS

Sought Their Co-operation "Because They Are The Only Nations That Treat China As An Equal," He Explains In Statement

U. S. AND EUROPE DEAF TO HIS PLEAS

Denies Intention To Spread Bolshevism In China And Says Translations Of Letters Were Garbled Into Twisted Meanings

In a formal written statement that he issued yesterday Dr. Sun Yat-sen gave answer to the blast that was directed against him by the Hongkong Telegraph which printed letters said to have been discovered after the Canton revolt and disclosing that Doctor Sun was negotiating a triple alliance of China with Germany and Soviet Russia.

In his statement Doctor Sun does not deny that negotiations were entered into with Germany and Moscow. He concedes the existence of letters of the character published by the Hongkong paper and reproduced here, and he sets forth plainly that he favors a rapprochement of China, Germany and Soviet Russia.

Doctor Sun emphasises, however, that he never considered the possibility of transforming China into a Communist state and concerning this charge made against him by the Hongkong publication he questions the translation of the letters published, intimating that it is inaccurate, and in particular he declares that the interpretation that was placed upon the letters—that he contemplated Bolshevism in China—is unjustified and cannot be borne out if the written Chinese text of the communications is followed. Doctor Sun's statement is as follows:

"Dr. Sun's attention has been specially called to the words italicised which draw from him the reply that they constitute a foolish and false statement. While he is under no obligation to answer charges made in an organ of certain well-known interests in the South, Dr. Sun says that the allegation is foolish because no one can really believe that there exists in China the same historical and economic conditions which have produced the sequence of events in Russia known as Bolshevism. And the statement is false because Dr. Sun has never planned, nor even thought of the possibility of, transforming China into a Communist state. A glance into his book on the "International Development of China" will show that he holds very strongly that the effective development and use of China's incalculable resources necessitate the co-operation of foreign capital and foreign technical assistance. He has made repeated offers for such co-operation in American, British and other quarters.

"With reference to Germany and Russia, Dr. Sun views the disarmament of Germany and the abolition of her exterritorial jurisdiction in this country as placing her, so far as China is concerned, in the category of non-aggressive powers.

"It is also the view of Dr. Sun that one of the greatest dangers in the past to the political independence and territorial integrity of China has been removed with the rise of Soviet Russia. And as long as the Soviet Government continues true and loyal to its non-imperialistic policy, a Republican China has nothing to fear from Russia.

"Dr. Sun adds that it is his considered view that China, at the present stage of her modernisation, stands in great need of assistance from Powers who will treat and deal with her as an equal and a fellow-sovereign state. He believes that Germany and Russia are now so circumstanced and governed that China can treat with them on terms of equality. He is, therefore, in favor of a policy looking towards a closer rapprochment with those two powers. He does not consider such a policy would militate against the legitimate interests of any power that desires a strong and united China. At any rate it is a policy which would serve the best interests of a non-monarchical and non-reactionary China. That is the dominating consideration which inspires him. He might be dubbed pro-German or pro-Bolshevik. Those epithets of hate and revenge have no terrors for him, though they have unfortunately deterred many from doing their duty as sane and real lovers of their country and of their fellow men.

"Dr. Sun has finally to refer to certain correspondence which he understands, Chen Chiung-ming

DINNER GIVEN TO CHINESE MEMBERS OF TARIFF BODY

Schedules Making Effective Five Percent Go Into Force December 1

Following the recent dinner for members of the Tariff Revision Commission that was given recently by Admiral Tsai Ting-kan and the Chinese delegates a second dinner was given at the Astor House las night to the members of the Chinese delegation by their foreign co-workers of the tariff body.

The closing session of the commission was held on Thursday when the revised tariff schedules on which the delegates have been working for the past six months at length were given final approval, as reported yesterday in THE CHINA PRESS.

Under the new schedules which have been adopted and which probably will be made public in the course of the coming week revenues of the Central Government will be increased between ten and twelve million yearly, according to estimates that have been made. Further revenue increases will be brought about by another commission that will begin sessions at Peking, probably early in the year, when an additional two and a half percent will be added to the tariff.

Ultimately China's revenues will be raised to an annual total considerably more than double what they have been under the old schedules. This will be when the final authorised increase of five percent becomes effective—to be added to the tariff when likin is abolished.

The new tariff schedules that have been calculated to make an effective five percent tariff are to go into effect on December 1, but all goods consigned to China which are shipped or are en route before December 1 are to come into the country under the old tariff schedules.

PRESIDENT GIVES WARM WELCOME TO MASONIC ENVOYS

Lodge Officials Are Received In Audience At Peking

Peking, Sept. 29.—A function unique in the history of China took place yesterday afternoon when Mr. Arthur D. Prince, Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of Massachussets; Mr. F. H. Hilton, the Grand Warden; Mrs. Prince and the leading officers of the International Lodge of Peking and their wives were received in audience by President Li Yuan-hung, being introduced by Dr. Wang Chung-huai who is himself a member of the International Lodge.

The President heartily welcomed the distinguished visitors, adding that Dr. Wang had informed him that Masonry debarred discussion of religion or politics, which pleased him. He was also glad to learn that Masonry was spreading in China and hoped that it would continue to do so.

In reply, Mr. Prince expressed appreciation of the honor shown to the party. He said that before leaving America he had seen President Harding, who wished him to convey his cordial greetings to all Masons in China.

Armed Robbers Raid Pawn Shop, Shoot Boy, Get $100

Within about sixty yards of the boundary of the International Settlement three armed intruders forced an unexpected entrance into a Chinese pawnshop on Haining Road near Chekiang Road about 8 o'clock last night. Members of the pawn shop staff gathered together around a table for their evening meal were given the first notice of the onslaught when a pistol was fired and the 16-year-old son of the proprietor of the place fell to the floor seriously if not fatally wounded.

In the confusion while the terrified inmates of the place were seeking places of safety the three robbers rushed behind the counter and seized all the money they could find, about $100. They fled across the boundary into the adjacent Chinese territory. The police are making an investigation.

At the hospital where the wounded youth was taken it was found that the bullet had entered his right cheek passing through a portion of the head to the back of his neck. He has a chance for recovery.

CHARGE TOKIO'S MILITARISTS AIM AT BUFFER STATE

Disappearance Of Vladivostok Arms Laid To Plot

(Reuter's Service)

Tokio, Sept. 29.—Revelations of the alleged intrigues regarding the disposal of arms are continued by the Kokumin, which now alleges that Japanese militarists have completed plans to establish a buffer state in conjunction with General Chang Tso-lin and General Dieterichs and for the organisation of a financial syndicate to assist both partners. The paper further alleges that the General Staff has sent eight additional attaches ostensibly to the Kwantung Army but really to assist General Chang.

The War Office spokesman quoted by the Kokumin denies any plan for the establishment of a buffer state but admits the disappearance of part of the confiscated arms and ammunition, the destination of which is now being investigated by the Foreign Office.

The alleged military activities are calculated to create a serious clash between the military and civilian elements of the Government, which well-informed persons believe will settle once and for all the question of "dual diplomacy" as regards China.

British Capital Takes Very Gloomy View Of Developments In Near East; Cabinet Holds An All Day Session

PARLIAMENT MAY BE SUMMONED

Declaration Of Government Official That "Situation Could Not Be Worse" Causes Feeling Of Great Anxiety

(Reuter's Service)

London, Sept. 29.—The Ministers spent practically the whole of yesterday conferring at Downing Street. The chiefs of the Navy and Army and Air experts were present.

London, Sept. 29.—A very gloomy view of the Near East situation is everywhere apparent. The opinion that peace hangs on a thread is borne out by a declaration of a prominent member of the Government last night that the position in the Dardanelles area and Constantinople could not be worse.

The question of the desirability of summoning Parliament is again cropping up. It is suggested that the position generally as known to the Government is even worse than the public realise.

The press continues firmly to reinforce the Government's attitude though in many cases not approving its conduct of affairs up to the present. A noteworthy sequel to the earlier suggestion that the Allies might evacuate Constantinople is seen in the fact that the political correspondents of two of the leading morning papers assert that the idea is without foundation either in respect of the Turkish capital or Chanak although it may ultimately be necessary to defend the Straits from Gallipoli.

(China Press Service)

Constantinople, Sept. 29.—It is reported that the Sultan has abdicated in favor of Prince Abdul Medjid, the heir to the throne.

Athens, Sept. 28.—The revolutionary Colonels Plastiras and Gonatas entered the Capital today at the head of their troops. They were enthusiastically received.

Paris, Sept. 28.—It is reported from Geneva that the Greek delegation to the League of Nations has been advised that the revolutionaries have taken prisoner King Constantine and that a Cabinet Minister has been killed.

Constantinople, Sept. 28.—In a message to General Pelle, the French High Commissioner, Mustapha Kemal suggested British withdrawal.

Sir Charles Harington replied suggesting a conference between the local British and Turkish commanders with a view to the establishment of a provisional neutral zone without prejudice to the line to be established subsequently.

London, Sept. 28.—It is learned in London that Kemal Pasha has gone to Angora to submit the Allied note to the National Assembly. It is therefore unlikely that a reply will be made before next week.

New York, September 28.—The steamer Themistocles brought 25,000,000 gold francs from the Greek National Bank to the Federal Reserve Bank at New York. The purpose of the shipment up to the present has not been explained.

Turks To Respect The Neutral Zone

Constantinople, Sept. 29.—Possible war between Great Britain and Turkey was averted, at least temporarily, this afternoon at the eleventh hour when the Kemalists issued a declaration that they would respect the neutral zone pending an armistice conference.

London, Sept. 28.—Anxiety has been renewed owing to the evident reluctance of the Kemalists to order withdrawal of the Turks from the Chanak zone. The British military authorities do not conceal that the situation entails much danger.

British reinforcements were disembarked at Chanak today and further naval units are proceeding to Constantinople.

The Sultan and cabinet are expected to quit.

London, Sept. 28.—A feeling of deepening anxiety prevails at the delicate position of the Asiatic neutral zone notwithstanding indications from authoritative Nationalist quarters in Rome and elsewhere of Kemal Pasha's intention to accept the Allied invitation to a peace conference. He desires it to be held in Italy if Asia Minor should be considered impracticable.

Meanwhile grave fears are entertained at the untoward happenings in the neighborhood of Chanak. The Turks are clearly encroaching on this zone in increasing strength, taking up positions with a set purpose and upon a concerted plan.

Another disturbing feature is the widespread arming of the civilian population in Constantinople and the large concentration of troops towards Ismid, leading to the suspicion that the Kemalist invasion of the Chanak zone is only a feint calculated to draw off the troops from the Turkish capital.

The attention devoted to he Turkish position has led to the Greek revolution taking quite a secondary place in the public interest.

The reverse of surprise or regret is expressed in London and Paris at King Constantine's overthrow but it is recognised that this adds to the complication of the situation inasmuch as it is felt that a certain degree of disorganisation is involved which is likely to encourage the more aggressive Kemalists to strive to attain their goal, namely, Thrace.

This desire is reflected by Kemal Pasha in his Note to Sir Charles Harington indicating a wish to "pass by the British troops" in the neutral zone "without attacking them."

Notwithstanding the challenging tone of the Note to Britain it is understood that Britain does not oppose the arrangement whereby the Soviet will be heard at the projected peace conference. It will probably be necessary, however, to devise means whereby the French disfavor will be overcome.

London, Sept. 28.—It is learned from an authoritative source that the tension in the Near East is in no way lessened by a telegram from General Sir Charles Harington containing Mustapha Kemal's reply to the Allies' request that he withdraw his troops from the neutral zone.

This was the subject of a Cabinet meeting today. It is suggested that Mustapha Kemal is endeavoring to gain time.

The position in Constantinople is causing apprehension. Turkish divisions are massing at Ismid and are threatening the city. A rising in Constantinople is not regarded as impossible.

The city is not regarded as suitable for defence and the Allies will probably retire to Gallipoli if attacked in order to defend the Straits.

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, Sept. 28.—The newspapers understand that Mustapha Kemal, after having conferred with M. Franklin Bouillon, who is expected to arrive at Smyrna today, will return to Angora where he will request the National Assembly to pronounce on the reply to the French, British and Italian invitation to a peace conference.

(China Press Service)

Rome, Sept. 29.—Arif Bey, representative of the Turkish Nationalists declared here today that the Turks did not want their government under British guns and they insisted on the right to insure the safety of their capital.

Constantinople, Sept. 29.—The British fleet concentrated in the Sea of Marmora, in the Bosphoros and in the Dardanelles includes six dreadnaughts, seven battle cruisers, twenty destroyers, and also submarines and airplane carriers. The land forces have been increased to 30,000 men and more are en route from Egypt, Malta and England.

'Voice Of People.' Voiced By A Mob, Led Tino To Quit

(Reuter's Service)

London, Sept. 28.—The Associated Press correspondent at Athens interviewed King Constantine on Tuesday evening in the garden of the Summer Palace at Tato. King Constantine was surrounded by his family, including the Crown Prince, to whom officers were bringing despatches indicating revolts all over the country. The King declared he would not abdicate unless it was demanded by the people.

On Wednesday he accepted the resignation of the Cabinet after the receipt of two ultimatums from troops on board the cruiser Lemnos, which had arrived from Laurium after stirring up the army to revolt.

A mission sent to Laurium to placate the revolutionaries failed. In the meantime there were demonstrations in Athens culminating in a mob surrounding the Palace and threatening to seize the King who then decided to abdicate.

Rambouillet, Sept. 28.—After hearing M. Poincare explain the situation, the Cabinet decided that the events in Greece in no way modify the decisions embodied in the Allies' Note to Kemal Pasha on the subject of the proposed conference.

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, Sept. 28.—The Temps, commenting on the events in Greece, writes:

"Nations expiate the faults of the Governments which they have of their own freewill given themselves and when in December 1920 the Hellenes frantically acclaimed Constantine on his return from exile, it was the whole future of Greece they sacrificed."

Paris, Sept. 28.—It is reported that M. Carapanos will become Greek Minister of Foreign Affairs while the portfolio of Finance will be assigned to M. Diomedo.

According to a Havas report King Constantine has been made a prisoner and one Minister was killed during the last troubles.

Border Moslems Show Interest In Near East Affair

Crown Prince Now On Greek Throne

(Reuter's Service)

London, Sept. 28.—It is learned from a trustworthy source that the Greek Crown Prince has accepted the throne.

Authoritative information received by Reuter states that Athens was quiet yesterday and is controlled by a committee of three generals.

A Greek warship with revolutionaries on board has arrived from the islands but there have been no disorders.

Friendly demonstrations took place before the British Legation.

The revolution at Salonika is also being quietly managed.

Athens, Sept. 28.—The Provisional Revolutionary Committee has issued a proclamation threatening disturbers of the peace with exemplary punishment.

The reports that Prince Paul is a prisoner have proved to be without foundation.

Constantinople, Sept. 28.—Before the departure of the Greek cruiser Averoff from Constantinople her officers and crew joined the revolt.

ceived the idea of crossing the Pacific in a fishing junk. He had had considerable experience with this type of vessel, experience which made him believe that it was seaworthy in any kind of a sea. And as a result of this experience, he built his ideal, the Amoy.

The vessel, which is sixty-eight feet overall and has an eighteen-foot beam, is modeled on a typical Chinese fishing junk, but its construction is far more sturdy and in place of the ordinary holds Captain Waard built amidships a comfortable little cabin, capable of accommodating four persons. Staunch camphorwood beams form the frame of the vessel, and it is divided into several water-tight compartments. Because it is to be used for exhibition purposes, Captain Waard painted the ship in a brilliant color scheme of blues and reds and greens, and the customary eyes stand out in the bow with a radiant brilliance.

Aside from the sails and the oars, there is no motive power aboard. The only hint of modernity is found in one hand-winch and a modern compass, which Captain Waard used to supplement the usual Chinese compass carried by fishing junks. The Amoy carries six sails, the three regular fanned sails of the ordinary junk and three light auxiliary sails. They are so arranged that all can be manipulated by one man, if necessary.

In the cabin, Captain Waard provided himself with a comfortable home for the two months which he expected to spend in crossing the Pacific.

He carried 550 gallons of fresh water out of Shanghai, which he replenished at Hakodate, and a small stock of food. He expected to catch enough fish on the voyage to supply the food needs of the crew. He had intended taking no one with him but the Chinese, but two days before he sailed River Policeman Kavalchuk prevailed upon him to take him along.

FOR REMOVING SUPERFLUOUS HAIR

No woman who has any sense of beauty will deny that superfluous hair is one of the greatest drawbacks to good looks.

Realising this, women of all times have put themselves to any expense, and have endured considerable pain and discomfort in order to rid themselves of this great disfigurement.

Nowadays electrolysis is a prevalent "cure" for this evil, but in reality this process involves a great deal of unnecessary expense, waste of time and pain.

The simplest quickest, and most effective treatment can easily be carried out by any sufferer, in the privacy of her home. This is the recipe:

Procure about 1 oz. powdered pheminol from your chemist; mix a sufficient quantity with a few drops of water into a stiff paste. Apply this carefully and thoroughly to the hair you wish to remove and allow the paste to dry. In a few minutes it can be gently scraped away. The skin is left absolutely free from hair, and should then be carefully washed in warm water, and if desired, lightly dusted with a little talcum powder. (Advt.)

Y.W.C.A. BUDGET FOR COMING YEAR SET AT $16,000

Campaign For Funds To Be Launched On Oct. 11 To 26

The advisers and executive Committee for the Y. W. C. A. annual campaign met yesterday at luncheon at 18 Yuen Ming Yuen Road to make definite plans to raise the budget of sixteen thousand dollars which is required for next year's program of work. The dates of the campaign have been set for October 11 to 26.

The sixteen thousand dollars for which the citizens of Shanghai are to be asked is an increase of one thousand dollars over the amount of last year's budget. This increase is made necessary by the enlargement of the organisation's activities to include an International Association to meet the needs of foreign women in Shanghai. Miss Cross will arrive early in November from New York to take charge of the establishment of this new departure in the work.

Since 1899 the Young Women's Christian Association has been a channel through which the citizens of Shanghai have evinced a practical interest in the welfare of young Chinese women, and they have each year shown their approval of the way in which their money has been administered the previous year by annually supplying in full the amount requested in the carefully prepared budget.

The work planned for the coming year is identical with that of the past one with the exception of the enlargement to include the International Association. They are a local city association with headquarters at 11 Quinsan Road where four foreign and ten Chinese women, under the direction of a Chinese governing Committee, conduct classes in English, bookkeeping, typing and stenography, Bible study, care of babies and better homes, as well as numerous social activities for the purpose of bringing Chinese women more closely together. The local Association also maintains a hostel with rooms for thirty Chinese girls. In addition a part of the Shanghai budget goes to assist in the support of the Physical Training School at 37 Kinchow Road which has sixty-two graduates teaching in mission and government schools throughout China and thirty-seven girls now taking the two-year training course. A portion of the money raised in Shanghai also goes into the headquarters budget, 3 Hongkong Road, to help make possible the opening of work in new centers.

The advisory committee for the campaign is: Mrs. F. Ayscough, Mr. H. K. Chow, Mr. Chur Dausung, Mrs. E. M. Gull, Mr. W. J. Hawkings, Mr. T. Knight, Mr. Loh Yung-tsung, Mr G. H. Stitt, Mr. R. S. Ren, Mr. K. P. Chen, Mr. V. G. Lyman and Mr. Sampson Young.

The members of the campaign executive committee are Mrs. C. W. Atkinson, Mrs. K. H. Chen, Mrs. T. C. Kwok, Mrs. L. E. McLachlin, Mrs. E. L. March, Mrs. H. C. Mei, Mrs. Sung Vung-Yoen, Miss Lucy Sung, and Mrs. S. M. Woo. Mrs. Fong F. Sec is campaign treasurer and Miss Maybelle Danuser, campaign executive.

CHARGE OF FRAUD IS MADE AGAINST LOCAL ATTORNEY

Mr. L. K. Kentwell Made Co-defendant In British Court Suit

Charges of "false and fraudulent misrepresentation" have been brought against Mr. L. K. Kentwell, British attorney, and Mr. G. R. Grove in an action taken by Mr. H. B. Clough in the British Supreme Court before Registrar G. W. King yesterday.

Mr. Clough bases his claim for the recession of a deed made in writing on September 1, 1921, whereby he, in consideration of the sum of $3,000, assigned to Mr. Grove a certain judgment, recoverable by the plaintiff in the International Mixed Court in an action brought by him against Lia Kengkee for $5,943.25.

The grounds of the action are that Mr. Clough "was induced to execute the said deed or document in writing by false and fraudulent misrepresentation of the defendant and Lawrence K. Kentwell, the counsel for both parties to the said deed, to the effect that certain leasehold of the property, namely the remainder of the lease of 765 and 779 Avenue Road, entrusted to the said Lawrence K. Kentwell for sale under the order of the International Mixed Court, was of the value of $3,000, and no more."

According to Mr. Clough the property was of greater value and when it was shortly afterwards resold the original purchaser made a profit of $500. Mr. Clough consequently asks $1,000 damages and all costs. Mr. Philip Goldring appeared for the plaintiff, and Mr. Kentwell for himself and Mr. Grove. Pleadings were ordered.

Vladivostok Hails Conference Smash With Great Delight

(Eastern News Agency)

Tokio, Sept. 28.—A Changchun special telegram to the Tokio Asahi dated the 27th says: After the breakdown of the Chungchun conference, the representative of the Asahi had an interview with both the Japanese and Russian delegates. The former paid a high tribute to the fair and just attitude of the latter and the latter also highly praised the gentlemanlike attitude of the former.

They are very glad that they could preserve friendship at parting.

The writer has received a very pleasant impression, for he never heard any delegates from the two countries make any criticisms of any individual delegate of the other country even at a time when, in their discussion, a difference of opinion was engendered.

A Vladivostok telegram states that no sooner had the news of the rupture of the Changchun conference reached Vladivostok than the Right became jubilant and took the optimistic view that another conference will be held in the near future between the Japanese Government and the Vladivostok White's Government.

If the present Vladivostok Government remains in power until after the withdrawal of Japanese troops from Siberia, the arms seized by the Japanese troops naturally would fall into the hands of the Vladivostok Government, which is now doing its utmost to maintain political power and to prevent an invasion by the Reds.

Dr. Sun Wrote To Rebuke Powers

has caused to be published in Hongkong for an obvious purpose. Dr. Sun says that he is not called upon to give any explanation, save to Parliament, as to any act or things done by him as the head of the Constitutionalist Government at Canton. If, however, it is alleged that the correspondence in question proves that he has 'been conspiring for an alliance between China, Germany and Russia based on Bolshevist ideals,' he suggests that the correspondence itself be read in the original Chinese. An authorised English translation is under consideration. But even the rather poor English version published in one of Chen Chiung-ming's organs in the South shows that the allegation is unwarrantable and is to be ascribed to propagandist-zeal."

Admiral von Hintze himself declares that he did not conduct any negotiations for such an alliance.

Excellent results with Super Durable Flat Finish are easily obtained, irrespective of the skill of the user, and an elaborate preparation of the surface is usually quite unnecessary.

Amateur Boxing Club Launches Campaign To Increase Membership

An appeal for members to engage actively in the work of securing new members was made yesterday by the Committee at the annual general meeting of the Shanghai Amateur Boxing Club.

The Club, started something over a year ago, now has fifty members and is in a strong financial position for so young an organisation, proving the popularity of the sport here. It has staged several admirable shows at the Town Hall and will give another next week. On May 1 the Club had in hand $1,909 and at the present time, after undergoing considerable expense it has in bank the sum of $430 and £76.

Yesterday's meeting was presided over by Col. R. Marr-Johnson, honorary president, while other officers and committee men present included Messrs. G. E. Mathews, G. T. Lloyd, J. Johansson, G. Johansson, M. Hertzberg, C. E. Siemsson and G. H. Parkes, secretary. Discussing the Club's activities Col. Marr-Johnson said:

"It was in January, 1921, that Mr. Parkes first conceived the idea of forming a Boxing Club. As in the case of all clubs, social or otherwise, a start has to be made by someone; and had it not been for our Secretary's persistent efforts, I am sure our organisation would never have come into existence. I well remember receiving a letter from him asking me to be a member, as did others of the community, with the result that the Club was duly formed and officially recognised by the end of March, with a membership of 27. Our roll today stands at 50, 30 Senior and 20 Junior. The majority of the latter are Public School Boys, past and present.

"Since the Club's formation we have met men of H.B.M. Navy on several occasions; most notably with H.M.S. 'Carlisle.' We did exceedingly well against the sailors, and we look forward to meeting them again in a few days time. The Naval men are to be congratulated on their sporty, and at all times, gentlemanly behavior. In addition to the foregoing, we have held three Committee metings and one general meeting. Rules and bye-laws have been framed for the guidance of all members and the proper working of the Club.

"In Mr. Billings we have a staunch supporter, his permission to use the school as headquarters is, and has been, of incalculable value; for without quarters to train and practice in a sports club of this description would look very sick; in fact, it is very doubtful whether the Club would have come into existence had it not been for Mr. Billings' support.

"This brings me to the subject of securing quarters in the central district, not that we despise our present arrangements—far from it—but simply as a matter of convenience. Our present home is a considerable distance from town, and active members find it very difficult at times to attend practice. A central gym, easy of reach from all parts of the Settlement, would not only strengthen our position, but more young men would take to boxing if headquarters were central, and until some generous person or persons turn up with an offer of a spare gymnasium, we must, I fear, be content with our present home.

"I am now on the subject of 'begging.' We have in our midst a goodly number of supporters by way of donors of trophies. It was a case of begging for these at the biggining of our career and we most heartily thank all those generous sportsmen who were so kind enough to help us in this repect. The holders of these are reminded that lovers of boxing in Shanghai are not backward in coming forward to assist in a sport that is world wide in its activities. However, our finances are now in a flourishing condition and we do not intend worrying our supporters on every occasion, but should those who have supported us in the past feel inclined to assist in the future, we shall receive all they have to give us with the greatest of pleasure.

"It is the wish of the Committee to promote, from time to time, Club Championships; this can only be accomplished by having a full list of active members. At present our active list is very limited and unless others come forward to compete, the possibility of carrying out the scheme seems very remote indeed.

"Another point I should like to bring to your notice and that is this: Boxing at its weakest is a very strenuous pastime, and boxers require a little assistance by way of a good rubbing down before and after a bout, more so during the training period. I appeal to our passive members to offer their assistance for this purpose."

SAYS "BUGS" Baer:

WHEN KILBANE MITTS DUNDEE

Ring Will Look Like Old Home Week In Old Soldiers' Home

Until Johnny Dundee slapped Danny Frush for a flotilla of side dishes, folks thought that Johnny didn't have no more punch than barley broth.

Here's a bird who was on the committee that welcomed Columbus to America. George Jiggs McManus says Dundee is so old that he has arrow marks on his back where the Indians used to shoot at him on his way to school.

Nobody knows how long John will keep on fighting because they didn't wind clocks up that far ahead. He's been in the ring now almost twenty years, daylight saving time. Slapping everybody from all angles and only guessing wrong once when Jackson speared him like a whale.

His easy mobbing of Frush makes Kilbane's kicking contest with Danny look very stupid. Some folks figure that Frush took a plea. But he also took a beating with it.

Kilbane will fight Dundee, because here is one battler that Kilbane won't have to spot fifteen years or more. Both of 'em are old enough to climb to heaven on their own beards.

That's as fighting ages go. The kid who starts in at eighteen has to fight fifteen years before he learns anything. By that time he is too old to use it. The old squirrels get the best hickory nuts after their teeth are gone.

This will be the battle of the age. There will be plenty of age in it.

Race Meeting Postponed Because Of Soft Track

Owing to the rains of the last few days officials of the Shanghai Race Club decided yesterday to postpone the fourth extra meeting of the 1922 season, which was scheduled for today, until next Saturday.

Since the last meeting the turf course has been widened by the annexation of a strip of the dirt track, and while this has been tamped and sodded it was feared that the new part of the track had not sufficiently "set" to make racing safe, and that the track, in its softened condition, would be cut to pieces by the ponies' hoofs, thus setting at naught the vast amount of work that has been done in widening the course.

The meeting arranged for today, therefore, has been moved ahead one week and officials are hopeful that weather conditions will make racing possible at that time.

LAWN BOWLS "WIND-UP"

The Shanghai Recreation Club will hold its "closing day for lawn bowls" tomorrow, and all members of other bowling clubs are cordially invited to take part according to an announcement sent out yesterday by Secretary Thompson. The competitions will begin at 3 o'clock.

Umpire To Make Use Of Magnavox

Another step toward modernizing baseball will be attempted this afternoon when Umpire Frank Bernard calls decisions through a magnavox in the Durant Motor-Hayward Boosters game at Hayward, says the Seattle Times of Sept. 2.

By means of underground wires from the grandstand to within a few feet behind the plate a mouth-piece in Umpire Bernard's mask will be connected to the magnavox placed above the stands.

Instead of raising his right hand to denote a strike the umpire will merely speak and his voice will be magnified hundredfold over the stands.

To free himself from the apparatus the umpire will cast off his mask as he ordinarily would do when complications arise during the game.

If the experiment is successful it is thought leagues all over the United States will adopt the plan and in time the Pacific Coast League and major leagues will use it.

Fred E. Bragg of the Boosters and Bernard are the originators of the idea.

Thompson under a separate maintenance agreement they had entered into were upheld yesterday in the British Court by Mr. G. W. King Registrar, following a protracted hearing. Mr. K. E. Newman appeared for the plaintiff and Mr. Tyche Wing for the defendant.

Mr. Newman said that under a separation agreement the defendant promised to pay half his salary to the plaintiff every month. He was at present employed by "Finance and Commerce" on a salary he understood, of Tls. 250 per month. Mr. Thompson a few months after the signing of the agreement, asked for the eldest child, a girl, and it was agreed that if the plaintiff agreed to let him have one of the three children he would reduce the contribution to $160. The original agreement, was therefore, modified. The eldest child was sent to the father in July.

On August 5, Mr. Newman continued, Mrs. Thompson asked her husband why the child had not been to see her, they having agreed that the little girl would visit her mother once a week. She was told by defendant in his office that she would never see the child again. He also threatened Mrs. Thompson, the attorney said. Mrs. Thompson saw the girl later, in the house of a friend, of Mr. Thompson, and took her away.

Mr. Wing submitted that the plaintiff was sueing on an agreement which no longer existed by virtue of the new arrangement arrived at regarding the eldest child. The new contract was a substantial variation of the old contract.

Mr. Newman denied that the old contract was rescinded, but admitted that it was modified.

Mr. Wing said that Habeas Corpus proceedings were taken by the defendant against his wife on a charge of the abduction of the eldest child.

The plaintiff said that she had been married since 1917. She had three children, the eldest of which was seven years old. She said that he always illtreated her and after two years of married life she left him, but went back to her husband on September 30, 1920, as her brother refused to help her.

Under the separation agreement that she signed, she was to have the custody of the three children. She received no allowance for July and August last, and towards the end of July she agreed to accept from her husband $100 if she gave up the charge of the eldest child, provided that she could always see her and that he sent her round every Saturday. She then related how the husband on August 5 last refused to allow her to see the child, and how she succeeded in finding the child in the home of a woman with whom she had some difference. She had paid out $390 for rent and amah etc. prior to the signing of the separation agreement for which she also sued.

Mr. Wing said that it was a matter of regret that the Habeas Corpus proceedings should be within the knowledge of the present court. The proceedings were taken as the plaintiff was not considered a suitable person to keep the children. Paragraph five of the defence, which was not read in Court, implied all the allegations on which the charge was based. Mr. Wing asked for the Court's ruling.

Registrar King said he would much prefer that this matter be kept out of the present case. The plaintiff was suing for money due under an agreement and there was nothing under that agreement that this allowance would be stopped if she proves not to be a suitable person.

Mr. Wing said that if the plaintiff were to conduct herself in such a manner as to prove injurious to the moral welfare of the children she would then not be a suitable person and the agreement is therefore nullified and she is thus not entitled to any allowance.

Registrar King: You put me in an awkward position by making an alternative pleading. I say that this is not the time and place to introduce this allegation. Assuming that I find in your favor and assuming that she is not a proper person, is she to get nothing under the agreement?

After a lengthy argument, Mr. Newman made an application to have the paragraph in question making allegations against the plaintiff be declared inadmissable as it was irrelevant to the case.

Registrar King gave the ruling that it was irrelevant.

The decision in the case was given by the court at the conclusion of the afternoon session after both Mrs. Thompson and her husband had testified.

ANALYSIS SHOWS GIESEL BRANDY TO BE SPURIOUS

Test Finished On Liquor Seized In Godown; Trial On Monday

Analysis of brandy seized by the French and International Settlement authorities in the recent raid on the godowns of Messrs. Giesel and Company has shown the liquor to be undoubtedly of the spurious sort, it was authoritatively reported yesterday, when it also became known that another seizure of alleged bogus liquor has been made at the Chaoufong Road godowns.

Mr. Albert Giesel, arrested following the original raid when hundreds of cases of liquors were seized by the police, will be brought up for trial at the French Mixed Court at 10:30 a.m. Monday.

The latest visit to the Giesel godowns was made Thursday afternoon, when Mr. G. P. Spizzica, representing Francesco Cinzano and Co., makers of Italian vermouth, was accompanied to the warehouses by representatives of the French and International Settlement police and found five cases of vermouth bearing the familiar Cinzano label. Samples of the liquor were taken for analysis and Mr. G. A. Bena, agent for the Cinzano firm will make application to the Italian Consulate for the Court authorities to be allowed to make tests. Should the vermouth be found to be an imitation another charge will be lodged against Mr. Giesel.

The Japanese, J. Hookabe, recently arrested for making fake Johnny Walker whiskey at 1460 Woosung Road, was brought up in the Japanese Court before Magistrate Kobayashi on Thursday and was sentenced to 20 days' imprisonment. Mr. R. F. Kotter, prosecuting on behalf of Messrs. Caldbeck, Macgregor and Co., Shanghai agents for the genuine Johnny Walker whiskey, emphasised the point that though the bogus liquor was being manufactured on a very small scale it was very hurtful and might do a great deal of harm.

JEWS SUNDAY HAVE CEREMONY OF YOM KIPPUR

Day Of Atonement To Be Observed With Services Here

On Sunday afternoon commences the Jewish Day of Atonement, known also as Yom Kippur. According to Holy Writ this day is established for the purpose of bringing home to the Jews the consciousness of human weakness and frailty, of sin and transgression. By means of self-imposed affliction and repentance the Jew is to turn from the evil ways which he has pursued in the course of the year, and by prayers and confessions be led to the gates of Heaven, there to obtain mercy and forgiveness. It is thus a day which begins with physical mortification and ends with spiritual exaltation. It is a day of affliction as well as a day of solemn rest, a Sabbath of Sabbaths.

By fasting and praying the Jews fortify themselves on the Day of Atonement against the temptations of the world. They strive to conquer the demands of their physical life and to rise to greater heights of introspection and self-examination. In this way they are more able to render account of their actions, and to judge themselves in the light of the Confessions.

On Sunday and Monday Rabbi H. Hirsch will deliever sermons at the Ohel Rachel Synagogue.

Gingling College Begins New Year With 83 Students

(China Press Correspondence)

Nanking, Sept. 28.—With a total enrollment of 83 students, Ginling College began the eighth year of its existence. The entering Freshman class numbered 36, coming from 15 Mission and 5 Government or private schools. An interesting feature in the personnel of the first year class is that all seven of this year's graduates from the Mary Farnham High School in Shanghai have come to college. The entire student body represents 11 provinces.

Three new members on the faculty bring the teaching staff to a total of fifteen, three Chinese, only one of whom is giving full time and twelve foreigners. The additions this year are Miss Ada A. Grabill, who had previously spent four years in China in Y.W.C.A. work and is to have charge of the Department of Music; Miss Marion J. Ewing, assistant librarian at Pomona College, who is spending her sabbatical year at Ginling in library and office work and Miss Dorothy D. Stendel, B. A. and M. A., Stanford University, who is to be in the English Department.

It is expected that college work will commence on the new campus a year from this fall. Six splendid buildings are nearing completion, an administration and classroom building, a science building, a social and athletic hall and three dormitories, one of which will be used for the foreign staff until further provision is made for their accommodation. In these buildings Ginling College will be in a position to receive the increasing number of girl students who are desirous of availing themselves of a college education.

HANNIGS CASE DECISION WILL BE GIVEN TODAY

Assault Charge Frame-Up Is Defence Put Forward At Tientsin Trial

Decision in the so-called Hannigs case is to be handed down today in Tientsin following the trial held there recently in the United States Court for China before Judge C. S. Lobingier. Widespread interest has attended this case by reason of the fact that the defendant, Charles Hannigs, who formerly was manager of both the Astor House and the Belmont Hotel at Tientsin, was convicted before the American consular court there some months ago on a charge similar to the one under consideration and subsequently succeeded in having the conviction set aside on a technical point raised here in Shanghai in connection with habaes corpus proceedings.

In the former case Hannigs was charged with assaulting a Chinese coolie and as basis for the new charge that has been brought against him it is alleged that he assaulted a riesha coolie.

Indication that the defense was to be that the present case was a frame-up or conspiracy against Hannigs was given at the preliminary hearing that was held in the court of United States Consul-General Fuller at Tientsin. Rodger and Haskell are attorneys for Hannigs, Mr. Rodger having represented him when the habaes corpus proceedings were instituted. Mr. Haskell has been appearing in the case at Tientsin and in the course of the preliminary hearing Mr. Haskell intimated that libel proceedings may be brought again Tientsin papers as an outcome of the case.

Reports of the preliminary hearing that were published at Tientsin disclose that it was somewhat volcanic in character. One of these reports run in part as follows:

Under questioning by United States District Attorney Leonard G. Husar, who prosecuted, the coolie testified that Hannigs had hired him on September 17 about 9 o'clock and pulled him around for a while until Hannigs hit him in the face in the French Concession, where he (Hannigs) had gone into a house of prostitution. The manager of the house and a Chinese girl also testified in the coolie's favor.

Mr. Husar in his questioning sought to bring out that the coolie had been approached through another Chinese and offered $50 if he would drop the case.

Mr. Haskell, in asking that the case be dismissed asserted that the evidence was altogether too flimsy to hold Hannigs for trial.

"It is the most absurd, ridiculous case I ever heard of," Mr. Haskell declared." Who are the witnesses that have been called? A ricsha puller, the keeper of a house of prostitution, and a prostitute! And their stories are so absolutely identical that it is clear they have been coached by the same person.

"Why, it would be perfectly easy for a few dollars to get such people to swear to anything you like about anybody you like. I submit that their evidence is of no value, that it is not evidence, and that the case should therefore be dismissed."

"I shall have a lot more to say about this case and these charges," Mr. Haskell continued. "And I shall have a lot to say about newspapers who have published libelous statements and stories damaging the reputation of Mr. Hannigs, and about the people who gave them these libelous reports."

At the conclusion of the hearing Hannigs was held under $500 security.

Dye Workers Here Threaten Strike

Threats of a strike tomorrow of 500 dye workers employed in thirty Shanghai dye shops are reported in the Chinese press.

The men held a meeting Thursday and decided that unless demands for more pay and better working conditions are met by the employers they will walk out on the first of the month, it being near the date of the mid-Autumn Festival, when workers generally join or resign from shops. The dye workers are reported to have made their demands originally three months ago and they assert that though they were promised some action would be taken nothing has yet been done.

Ballet Dancers To Open Engagement At Del Monte Tonight

This is the "big night" at the Del Monte, for tonight, promptly at ten, will be the grand opening of what the managers describe as the "sensational Russian Ballet."

For the last three months Del Monte scouts have been searching all over Russia for this ballet, and from preliminary reports their hunt has not been in vain, as the singers and dancers that have been recruited are stars of the first water.

The ballet is under the direction of ballet masters Jan and Helen Demaratsky and some of the dancers that will be produced tonight would be worthy of the Metropolitan in New York. Pretty girls and pretty costumes will be the rule at the Del Monte from now on.

The new artistes specially engaged for this show include the following: Zena Saretta, Lucia Bonaslovskaya, Dora Spampanaya, Marusia Krasnapolskaya, Klavdia Spampanaya, Katia Rosomavskaya, Nina and Michael Korozsky and Paulia Bucogova.

In addition to this dazzling array of dancing talent the management announces that Victor Cavien, the new chef that has been imported from Paris, will be on the job for the first time tonight, and the dishes he will prepare for those who wish a midnight supper will put even ye hamme and ye eggce in the shade.

Billee Power, the musical director, has been rehearsing his orchestra all week in preparation for tonight's opening and has given assurance that the musical end of the program will be fully in keeping with the other arrangements.

Exchange Fluctuations

Asia Banking Corporation

September 29, 1922

Spot and forward bar silver were each unchanged in London yesterday.

The New York price declined to 69 cents and the London-New York cross rate to 439.

The only changes in our official quotations here today were a drop in the Gold Dollar rate to 75 and in the Franc rate to 990.

Our market was again steady throughout the day although in the early part of the morning there was a good demand for Gold Dollars in which a fair business was done at 76⅝ for October delivery and 75¾ for forward.

Later on in the day, however, there were good sellers at this rate and buyers at ⅛ point higher. Business in Sterling was done at 3s. 5 1/16 d. for September-October delivery and 3s. 5 9/16 d. for forward.

At the close there sellers at these rates with buyers at 1/16 d. higher.

There was a good demand for Yen today particularly in the afternoon. Banks offering to sell at 63 only for near delivery and 62⅞ for forward.

There were good buyers of Franc T. T. at 1015 for practically any delivery with sellers at about 1012.

Banks were quoting 3-6½ for Sterling bills, 78 for Gold Dollar bills and 1040 for Franc Bills.

The London and New York silver markets were again quiet yesterday with nothing doing.

Both are reported as steady.

WEATHER

Inflation And "Tight Money"

TO many the cabled descriptions of an acute credit stringency at Berlin, of increasing difficulty in obtaining money for business uses, even of the "rationing" of the amounts paid out in cash by the Reichsbank to private German banks rediscounting their mercantile paper holdings, seem utterly inconsistent with the simultaneous reports of unprecedented issues of new paper money. Last June, 18,000,000,000 marks were added to the German circulation, something quite unparalleled. Last July the output was 20,000,000,000 marks; in August the additions were 30,000,000,000, compared with an actual decrease during August, 1921. It is not unnatural that the public should ask, How is a "money shortage" possible with the printing of new money going on at so unprecedented a rate?

This perplexity results from confusion of currency as a circulating medium with capital as a basis of credit. Western Europe and America witnessed the same phenomenon in 1920, when the outstanding paper currency in both markets was still rising toward its maximum, and yet when tight money and strained credit were in evidence on every market. When the Bank of England rate and our own reserve bank rate went to 7 percent that year, as the Reichsbank rate has just gone, the paper circulation both of England and America was at the highest figure on record.

Increased currency issues are not capital; they are only the medium through which capital performs its office. When prices are driven to fantastic heights by such paper inflation as has prevailed in Germany, the capital through which banks or industries or commercial enterprises do their business either remains unchanged or else must be increased by new application to the investment markets. During the first part of the year the increase in Germany was very large; the stock and bond capitalisation of incorporated enterprise and the private capital of merchants were enlarged repeatedly in Germany to meet the requirements imposed by higher prices, higher wages, and therefore the higher costs of doing business.

In the single month of May, 2,300,000,000 marks were raised through new issues of stock by existing companies. But even this increase failed to keep pace with the currency inflation and with the consequent rise of working costs; it has now for some months been common talk in Germany that the markets were not taking new capital issues freely. Either the wish or the power of the public to subscribe was failing—as it did in the rest of the world during 1920. Such a turn of events, with the mark falling and prices rising at the pace of the last few weeks, could have but one result: to drive even largely capitalised men and institutions into the open money market, with results which became unpleasantly familiar to other markets two years ago, and which are now taking shape in Germany on a far more formidable scale.

Tarkington Looks At The Censor

BY THEODOCIA WALTON

There is a touch of the ironic in interviewing Booth Tarkington, a novelist who never writes anything that is not wholesome and delightful and clean, and having the interview deal with modern tendencies to eroticism, salacity and immorality. John S. Summer is responsible. The Secretary of the New York Society for the Suppression of Vice, when he proposed a censorship of all new manuscripts before publication, in order to check the wave of sex books which he thinks is flooding the country, cited Booth Tarkington as one of the few writers of good literature who is successful without having recourse to salacious material.

Mr. Tarkington was found in the library of his home at Kennebunkport, Me., where he spends nearly eight months each year. The house stands on a hill overlooking the ocean, and everything about seems like the man himself—big and clean and fine. He was perfectly willing to be interviewed, but one got the impression that he found it rather difficult to talk about censorship and erotic literature and "such things," especially to a woman.

"It's very nice of Mr. Summer to hold me up as an example," he said, "but the fact is that I don't write about such things, simply because I don't think about such things." ("Such things" was the all-embracing term he used, in order, I imagine, to avoid words he didn't care for.) "I'm rather a poor person to interview on the erotic tendency in modern writers, because I avoid books of that character as much as possible.

"Of course, one can't even read book reviews now without realising that our young writers are striving to outdo each other in frankness, and if we could get a man who was intelligent and honest to act as censor of new manuscripts, it would be obviously a good thing. Certainly books are being published now that are not suitable for young and immature minds. We should handle the problems as the French do. They write about anything they want, but their young people are not allowed to read books indiscriminately. In America I'm afraid it's a little too late to dictate to our young people in that fashion. It seems to me, however, that, left to themselves, young people have naturally healthy tastes. I have generally found it is an older person who first suggests to them the erotic in literature—or life.

"But about censoring books? The fact is, I've never thought much about censorship of any kind. In general, I would say it is likely to be a dangerous thing, because it places arbitrary power in the hands of one man. We should be able to depend upon the law to protect us, since one may not always be a discreet and intelligent person. If we could get a man like Will H. Hays, or Augustus Thomas, to act as a censor of books, I would approve of it very heartily, for I know those two men and know they are extremely intelligent and can be trusted with power. So much depends upon the personality of the censor.

"It seems more feasible to have one man act as a censor than a committee, but, of course, that's just my idea about it. The first man selected will be all right, but the danger is in establishing the position, and in time having an opinionated, inefficient man elected to it. It would be a very hard post, and I would say, offhand, the salary of the book censor would not be anything like the one offered Will Hays. Things are not done on that scale in the world of books.

"Opposition from some authors and publishers is a matter of course. There is no question that of two books equally well written the one that is off color sells better than the one that is not. That is true, too, of the stage play. If a play is suppressed and later put on again the house will be sold out for weeks in advance. I remember when 'Mrs. Warren a Profession' was first produced. The police decided to suppress it. The matter was then taken to court by the producers and they won. When it was announced that the play would be resumed, seats sold for as high as $20. Every one wanted to see it. Yet three or four nights afterward seats were sold at the usual price.

"There was nothing indecent in that play, nothing to offend any one. It was a mistaken judgment that ordered its suppression, and that is what we would have to guard against in censorship of literature, distinguishing between a salacious way and an honest way of handling certain subjects. A real work of art need never be censored. Something seriously done, as Zola did his work, cannot offend. There is nothing to my mind salacious about Zola. But his imitators make this mistake. They think going into details about very physical things is writing like Zola. With his imitators it is too often sheer delight in morbidness, whereas when he wrote about such things it was painful to him.

"The so-called young realist isn't a realist at all. For instance, he contents himself by writing 'Mabel ate a piece of candy.' He doesn't follow that piece of candy through all the processes of digestion. Mabel ate a piece of candy and that is all there is to it. But when the young realist becomes erotic he tells the whole business. I'm afraid most of the young realists are realists for revenue only."

Then Mr. Tarkington mentioned one contemporary whose erotic sex he believes to be perfectly genuine. "His style may be as involved as that of several of the European novelists who are in the front rank of literature, but he writes what he thinks, and he writes it regardless of the monetary returns."

Mr. Tarkington lit another cigarette and walked over to the blazing fire he had just built. "Isn't this a wonderful part of the world?" he asked. "Don't you like it up here?"

"Yes," I said, "and there's nothing I would rather do than talk about Maine and this beautiful place of yours, and how you can keep on writing such amusing things, and how you happen to know so much about the boy and girl of 17 and younger—but I'm afraid I've got to drag you back to the erotic tendency once more. Will you talk some more about it and why there is such a wave of sex stuff just now?"

Mr. Tarkington simply could not be impolite, but it was with obvious reluctance that he turned around and prepared to discuss "such things" once more. He began with a very significant remark.

"The root of the whole matter is a breaking down in taste. I've never thought of it as a question of morals. But we can't propose to furnish good taste to the twenty million who frequent the movies and demand 'close-ups' of the hero and heroine 'locked in a passionate embrace.' Personally, I don't like to read about young people spooning. It seems to me like making love on a park bench. It's too public. These authors who write paragraphs and paragraphs about a kiss should respect the young people they are writing about too much to talk about it. They wouldn't stand and watch them in real life. The reader can know it happens without writing it all out.

"But young writers have a queer notion about realism. They think it demands frankness on all subjects. This is utter nonsense. There are plenty of subjects to be realistic about. Why pick out only the unpleasant ones? It seems to me that Bernard Shaw and H. G. Wells, misunderstood—and please emphasise the misunderstood—are responsible for a great deal of the eroticism in our young writers. A young and imaginative writer who admires Shaw tremendously, thinks it is daring and reckless to write unconventional things, and to say unconventional things. 'I must write about real things,' he cries, 'I must call a spade a spade, I must use all the bad words I know. Shaw talks about anything he wants to. So will I.' But they fail to see the difference. Shaw is clever but not salacious. He has never written anything just for the sake of catering to a morbid taste.

"I read so few of the modern novels that I really shouldn't make any generalisation, but of those I have read, many seem to be in bad taste. When the book is written by one of my contemporaries I feel that he has succumbed to this craze for erotic literature simply because he knows he will make more money by that kind of bock. When it's written by a young writer just starting out, it's more likely to be a deliberate seeking of the salacious because that is the easiest way to get a book published. And a young author is passionately self-assertive, so indignant about his art. Any criticism seems so terrible to him. Yes, it is to be deplored that success in terms of financial returns lies in writing 'such things.'

"Establishing a censorship would certainly check the tendency, but the real solution to my mind lies in awakening the good taste of the public. I don't think real people read all this trash. The problem is to make the twenty million disregard it, too. That was the solution after the Elizabethan age. Literature has never been as raw as it was then. It wasn't Puritanism that put a stop to the publishing of indecent books then. It was that they offended good taste, and a wave of repugnance for them spread until they were not read by any one who counted, and that is what will have to happen here."

The question was raised of the share of the psycho-analysts in the new frankness.

Mr. Tarkington answered: "Yes, in a way, I think psychoanalysts are responsible for an unpleasant increase in the modern vocabulary. The word 'complex,' for instance. Using that sort of terminology almost like slang is responsible for a good deal of shoddy writing." He stopped and smiled. "And now have I said enough? I'm very proud of my hydrangeas. Wouldn't you like to see them?"

The erotic interview was over.

On the way out I said to him: "Did you read in the newspaper yesterday that the girls at Columbia had voted you their favorite author?"

"No. Did they? Wasn't that nice of them! You know, I don't subscribe to a clipping bureau. I think it interferes with your work. I like to go ahead and write and hope that people will like my stuff, and if they don't I'd rather not know it. I've never forgotten something William Dean Howells said to me when I was a young writer. 'My boy, don't think too much about the critics. The unkind things they say can hurt you long after their praise has ceased to matter.'

"It seemed very sad to me that a man of his ability should be hurt by unkind things. I've never forgotten it. Another thing he told me was never to be discouraged, but to cultivate the hide of a rhinoceros, and as often as my stories came back, send them on to the next publisher. When I started I couldn't sell a story anywhere. I sent them to every publisher in the world, I guess, and they always came back. You were kind enough to say you liked one of my first 'Monsieur Beaucaire.' I must tell you how I happened to write it. I had a friend who seemed enormously successful to me and he asked me to illustrate a story of his. I could do that, at any rate, and I was very much pleased. Well, the magazine to which he sold his story failed, and there I was left with these illustrations on my hands. So I sat down and wrote a story to fit my illustrations and I sold it. Wasn't that luck?"

"And now you have every one waiting to read your next one!" I exclaimed. "Are you writing a novel now?"

"No. I'm just finishing a play for Billie Burke. She's over at York Harbor now, and I've been working all day long to get it into shape. I even went without my swim, and that doesn't often happen. I go in when the temperature is as low as 48. We come up in May and often stay until the middle of December. Last year was 16 degress below zero the day we left. But there's no place I love so well. Now, what do you think of my hydrangeas?"

The novelist who has never needed a censor had disappeared. The owner of the gardens was in his place.

The War Debts

(New York Times.)

Mr. Otto Kahn, returning from consideration of war finance problems in Europe, contributes suggestions of policy. He proposes separation of our foreign loans into those used for war-making purposes and those used otherwise, both during the war and after the armistice. He would not forgive either class of debts as a free gift, but would use at least the former class as the consideration to induce

"The elimination, as far as possible, or at least the prompt and essential mitigation, of the circumstances and conditions which keep Europe in unsettledness and turmoil.

"I feel convinced that such a bargain would be a good and profitable investment and would not only result in securing a valuable moral asset for America, but would be of distinct material benefit to us."

The opinion of the country is ripening toward such conclusions. Mr. Kahn's idea is that, where cash repayment is hopeless, there may be substituted something worth having, even though not the first choice. We are not able to have our debts forgiven as we forgive our debtors, for we owe nobody. It is as impossible for some of our debtors to pay us as it is for Germany to pay what she should. But the forgiveness of debts to us for such considerations as Mr. Kahn specifies would invigorate world finance.

The Fatal Lure Of Perpetual Motion

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS
Eminent Astronomer and Authority on Subjects of Scientific Interest.

I have a letter from a mon in Chicago who says: "I don't seem to be able to get your idea of perpetual motion. You say 'To keep a machine going fresh energy must be put into it, but doing that violates the fundamental idea of perpetual motion.' Does that mean that if the machine is run by the energy it supplies itself it is not perpetual motion? If so, perpetual motion is impossible."

A machine that could supply its own energy without drawing upon any outside source would, unquestionably, be a perpetual motion machine. That is why I say that when fresh energy is put into a machine the fundamental idea of perpetual motion is violated. But that idea is continually violated by all actually existing machines. To make my meaning perhaps a little plainer, I will put it this way: by its own definition you cannot have a perpetual motion machine unless it is one that can and does ceaselessly keep up its supply of energy without any outside aid whatever—and that is something that never happens.

The question is not about the original source of the energy, but about its perpetuation in the same unchanging form. If I could, wit a twirl of my wrist, set a sewing machine going, and if the machine, while continually sewing seams, kept running on unceasingly without loss of energy and without any further aid from me or from anything outside itself, then I should have produced the one great wonder of the world, swallowing up all the others like Aaron's serpent-rod—a perpetual motion machine! The meaning of this seems plain, and it also seems plain that no such miracle can ever be performed by man, as long as the laws of nature remain what unvarying human experience has hitherto shown them to be.

But, now listen to my Chicago friend's next statement:

"I have a machine which supplies its own energy and is controllable. The machine, which is an invention of my own, can be now used to run electric dynamos. This machine can take the place of a steam or gas engine, which is now used to run electric dynamos, and be under no expense. Some day I will put it on the market as soon as I can get some one to go in partnership with me in getting a world-wide patent!"

Yes, indeed! How many times I have heard that appeal for a partner! Usually it is for a partner with money, or who can command money; sometimes it is for a partner with brains, to complete the "invention" or to find out how to make it work. But partners of either kind are very scarce for such a purpose. It would be unjust to assume that there is an intention to deceive behind all such attempts. The deception is generally only self-deception. Even in the most aggravated cases of apparently intentional fraud, it is probable that the "inventor" has simply fooled himself, and innocently fooled his backers, some of whom may be more guilty than he is.

But there ought to be plain speaking about these things. Either science is valuable or it is worthless. There are few today, I believe, who will venture to assert that it is worthless. It has proved its value and its power too triumphantly for that. What, then, does science say about perpetual motion? It says, in substance, what I have been echoing in this and many other articles, viz., that man cannot make a perpetual motion machine, and it shows why he cannot do it. The fundamental idea of a perpetual motion machine is diametrically opposed to the fundamental law of mechanics, which law is equivalent to the old adage that you cannot eat your cake and still have it to eat. You must have a cook as well as an appetite.

Such boasts as that "nothing is impossible" and that "the word impossible is not found in the vocabulary of genius" are spurs to effort, not statements of fact; and when they are misinterpreted so as to encourage attempts to violate the very bases of all experience and the unshaken principles of science they should be treated as culpable fanfaronade. There are impossibilities, many of them, surrounding us on all sides. We are not gods, but simply men. We cannot live without breathing; we cannot jump over the moon; we cannot turn ourselves into fish or birds, although we have learned to navigate the air and the submarine depths.

The symbolic and imaginative use of language in connection with these wonderful modern achievements very likely has something to answer for in its tendency to spread the notion that there is no dictum of science that may not be contradicted. Let people who think they know that scientists themselves will always be the first to detect flaws in science and the most capable to correct them. The pursuit of science is the pursuit of truth and the most unbiased of all intellectual activities.

Science has never been shaken in its assertion that we cannot make a perpetual motion machine. If you wish to stretch the point and assume that such a machine might be made, then be sure it will be science herself that makes the first one.

The Week's Market Report

COTTON

In their weekly report on the Shanghai Cotton market, Messrs. A. B. Rosenfeld and Son write as follows:

China Cotton.—During the early part of the past week it looked as if cotton were of absolutely no intrinsic value and the market was pounded down by disgusted bulls and elated bears until every month was well under Tls. 27.00 for Tungchow. Prices showing at one day a gross decline of three quarters of a tael, making a total decline of about one and a half taels from the level of a week ago. The dominant feature of the recent decline was in sympathy with the heavy decline in the yarn market and unfavorable trade conditions in Japan.

From the foregoing conditions of the market, we do not anticipate anything like a return of the high prices prevailing, but we think that the Bears have had a sufficiently long pull at the pitcher and that the market may have some reaction in the near future.

Looking at the situation in the broadest way, we believe that as soon as the outlook for the yarn market shows signs of activity, the preponderance of chances will be against the market. In the meanwhile, however, the market will be governed by the yarn market as well as the market in Japan, so that for the present we see no reason to depart from the policy we have been advocating in our previous reports, of buying whenever the market seems unduly depressed and selling on any good advance.

Yarn.—The market during the past week has been generally weak, with a further decline of three to four taels from last week's level. At the close of the market it seemed to be in favor of steady prices but with the undertone weak. Business continues at a standstill during the week and is likely to remain so until some time after the Mid-Autumn Festival, which falls on October 5. But if the trade continues lifeless at that time it seems that the market will decline further on account of heavy stocks.

SPUNT'S REPORT

Messrs. J. Spunt and Company write as follows in their report on the cotton market:

China Cotton:—Actual business transacted has been on a very mediocre scale, nor has there been speculative activity to any extent in evidence throughout the past week. Spinners for the time being appear to be inclined to keep out of the market and are encouraged in this policy by the absence of any palpable demand for their product and in as much as prices on yarn show a downward tendency in so much do spinners expect by their present attitude to evolve commensurate rates in the raw material by means of which their efforts may finally be satisfactorily compensated. While it may be conceded that this procedure has a certain plausibility yet the anticipated outcome is very problematical in that such would seem to depend at this time more or less on the financial strength of the farmers and their ability to retain their holdings until such time when a general demand for the staple becomes imperative and in which event they may attain the desired price on the product of their labor. In the meantime, however, the tone of the market is weak.

JUTE FABRICS

In his fortnightly report on the jute fabrics, Mr. J. A. Fredericks state:

A few parcels of Heavy C's 2¼ lbs. bluestripe and 2½ lbs. greenstripe changed hands during the fortnight under review at slightly better prices. Holders are asking Tls. 182 for the former while the latter cannot be had at less than Tls. 205 and in small lots only. Hessians have advanced to Tls. 120 at which there are only few bales to be had.

HANKOW MARKET

The British Chamber of Commerce at Hankow write as follows in their weekly circular dated Hankow, September 20:

Bar Silver rose from 35⅛ ready, 35⅛ forward, to 35⅝ ready and forward, dropped back again to the former rate, and rose again to 35⅛ ready and 35⅝ forward. The New York-London cross rate dropped from 444⅞ to 442½, rising again to 443 and after dropping to 441⅝ closed at 442½. Official T.T. rates remained at 3s. 6⅝d. with sellers ⅜ over that rate. 4 m-s. Credits were placed at 3s. 7⅝d. and 3s. 7½d. Chinese market rates: Shanghai Tls. 97.25. Local currency $70.225. Native interest: 10 percent.

Exports:—The remains as last reported, with Tael prices firm. Some purchases of sesamum seed are reported, but in other lines little if any business has been done.

Imports:—Conditions remain about the same as last reported. No demand, and clearances poor.

CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

Save the Babies.

INFANT MORTALITY is something frightful. We can hardly realize that of all the children born in civilized countries, twenty-two per cent, or nearly one-quarter, die before they reach one year; thirty-seven per cent, or more than one-third, before they are five, and one-half before they are fifteen!

We do not hesitate to say that a timely use of Castoria would save a majority of these precious lives. Neither do we hesitate to say that many of these infantile deaths are occasioned by the use of narcotic preparations. Drops, tinctures and soothing syrups sold for children's complaints contain more or less opium, or morphine. They are, in considerable quantities, deadly poisons. In any quantity, they stupefy and retard circulation and lead to congestions, sickness, death. Castoria operates exactly the reverse. It causes the blood to circulate properly, opens the pores of the skin and allays fever.

REGINALD BATE, N. C. DAILY MAIL PUBLISHER, DEAD

Well Known Editor Succumbs To Long Illness At Tientsin

Mr. Reginald Bate, F. R. G. S., late R. N., one of the proprietors and until recently editor of the North China Daily Mail and the North China Sunday Times, died on September 26 at his home in Tientsin.

The late Mr. Bate was born in Dublin in October 1880, and was thus in his forty-second year. His father, who is still living, was until recently Solicitor to the General Post Office at Dublin. Mr. Bate was educated privately, at the College School at Queenstown, and at Eastman's Royal Naval Academy, Fareham, previous to entering the Navy in June 1894. He served as Midshipman and Sub-Lieutenant in the Far East, the Mediterranean, and the Atlantic, but resigned his Commission during the South African War in order to join the Irish Horse. He served with them in South Africa, receiving the south African Medal with several Clasps, and subsequently joined the Transvaal Horse Artillery Volunteers. After the war he entered the employment of the Consolidated Gold Field Company in the Transvaal, and it was while there that he met and married Miss Gipsy Maclear, daughter of the Astronomer Royal at Cape Town.

It was in 1906 that he first came out to China as a civilian, joining the firm of Bush Bros in Newchwang, to act as personal secretary to Mr. Harry Bush, and Secretary to the Cathay Mining Syndicate.

In 1910, while in Shanghai, he was first stricken with the disease which rendered him physically infirm for the remainder of his life, a rupture of blood-vessels in the brain causing locomotor ataxia. He recovered for a time, but the disease returned, and for the last ten years he has only been able to walk with great difficulty. In 1911 he came up to Tientsin and took over the editorship of the now defunct China Times, conducting it until a few months before it suspended publication. In partnership with Mr. T. G. Fisher he then started the N. C. Daily Mail, which for the first year or two of its existence was printed by the Tientsin Press.

After establishing their own printing plant in the French Concession, the proprietors launched another venture, the North China Sunday Times. Of both these papers Mr. Bate remained editor until failing health compelled him to entrust the responsibility to other hands in February of this year. He continued however, when his health permitted, to work in the office, and one could not help being impressed by the cheerfulness, optimism, and absence of all complaining, when one saw him between the bouts of sickness which from time to time completely incapacitated him during the current year.

The papers with which he was identified filled a niche in Tientsin. Mr. Bate was an uncompromising Irish loyalist. Previous to the Great War he had displayed great keenness in organising the Far Eastern Branch of the Legion of Frontiersman, of which he was Commandant in this part of the world. He was also a Fellow of the Royal Geographical Society, a Member of the Institute of Journalists, and for some years had acted as Tientsin Correspondent of the London Daily Mail.

He leaves behind him a widow and an only son, aged fourteen, who, after some years schooling at home in charge of his grandparents, was brought back to China and is at school at Chefoo.

The remains of Mr. Reginald Bate were laid to rest in the Canton Road Cemetery, in the presence of a large gathering of friends, Wednesday afternoon. The coffin, which was covered with a Union Jack, was completely smothered with wreaths and other floral tributes, and only a portion of the mourners could be accommodated in the Chapel. The Burial Service was read by the Rev. S. G. Teakle, M. A., and the coffin was carried to the graveside by Messrs J. Cowen, J. Frost, T. G. Fisher, R. C. P. Phillips, J. MacKinlay, and A. McDonald. At the conclusion of the graveside service two Buglers from the 2nd 55th sounded the "Last Post."
